

The Winter Of Her Discontent

She spoke of their days together
Under a dimmed and candle light

She turns to her lover and says
Do you remember what happened that night

You made a fool of me in front of our guests Saying I was just your friend
All the time knowing how much I loved you
And just humiliating me to the end

And so I've asked you here tonight
To have you know what it's like to cry
For I heard your new love has left you
So I too now will say goodbye

Rachel Ann Bovier