My dearest father, 28 years now and it seems not nearly that long ago. Now it is a wound that has gotten larger, and it will never heal. It's going to be so different for the holidays now that mom came to be with you. The table gets smaller and smaller as the years go by. I truly believe that there is no pain in heaven, so now mom, you can be whole once again. Ali says she sees you both much younger, how nice that would be, especially dad, since you were in heaven before she was born. Visit her more, please, for me. With all my love to my mom and dad.

Your Son, Anthony
