

Missing Christmas

How I miss the Christmases past
When we all would gather at the house
The laughter the carols the presents
And the helping of wine we would douse
And of course the stories of old That had found a place in our hearts
And sufficed to say indeed
There were never no
missing parts
But so funny like a jigsaw puzzle
The missing parts have made their way here
But I'll try to put em back together
With the help of Kris Kringle
this year
