

Missing Christmas

How I miss the Christmases past

When we all would gather at the house

The laughter the carols the presents

And the helping of wine we would douse

And of course the stories of old That had found a place in our hearts

And sufficed to say indeed
There were never no
missing parts

But so funny like a jigsaw puzzle

Those missing parts have now reached seven

But I'm sure they are all together

Celebrating Christmas in heaven
