

Arrow Through Your Heart

And how you loved that person Who wasn't in love with you But you swore to the heavens above
That you'd make the perfect two

How it killed your greatest dream
That arrow right through your heart
And how you cried yourself to sleep
Feeling that poison dart

It ran all through your veins Penetrated your skin
and body
And you said as you looked in the mirror
How can love be so cruel and naughty

But then again you got to thinking
That things happen for a reason
But in the back of your broken mind
It was tantamount to treason

Rachel Ann Bovier (Calls & Letters Welcomed)