She embraced a life of travel and adventure as part of a military family, raising her three children with unwavering support, encouragement, and boundless love in homes around the world. Rose was known for her boundless generosity and hospitality. She was very active in her church and devoted significant energy to numerous human support efforts there. Her home was a place where everyone felt welcomed, and her gracious nature touched all who knew her. An avid baker, her cookie making skills were in high demand for weddings and other events.

Rose was proud to be one of the first hires of RPS (now FedEx Ground) and was a highly respected assistant to the CEO for many years.

Predeceased by her parents, siblings, and her beloved Tom and Beth, Rose maintained a hopeful outlook throughout her life. Her Catholic faith was the cornerstone of her existence, and she faced her passing with confidence that she would be reunited with her loved ones in the afterlife.
