A Christmas Memory

came around I found myself praying to heaven

And when Christmas time

That my Mom and Dad would reunite

Because they just couldn't get along And it really made me sad But I just carried on with a

Christmas song Christmas morning would come and I hoped That my Dad would walk

But it always ended up being Santa Leaving the presents on our linoleum floor through that door

And of course it brought great joy For this boy at seven indeed

And who still believed in Santa And all he would ever need

But still my mother was sad And that made me sad as well Because there was always a trickle in her eve And that had told the tale Now in thinking of those Christmas mornings

Till this day I realize and see That my Mom despite my father's absence Made sure there were presents under that tree Rachel Ann Bovier (Xmas Cards Welcomed)
