

RICHARD J. ARNOTT

Richard J. Arnott, a devoted family man, entrepreneur, and passionate hobbyist, passed away on January 21, 2025. He was the cherished son of the late John M. Arnott and Jessica (Lech) Arnott. Born with a zest for life and a boundless curiosity, Richard's presence enriched the lives of all who knew him.

Richard was a graduate of Carnegie Mellon University, where he laid the foundation for a distinguished career in medical technology. As the owner of Medical Device Technologies, he made significant contributions to the field, leaving a lasting impact on both colleagues and the broader healthcare community.

Beyond his professional achievements, Richard pursued a variety of interests with enthusiasm and skill. A former member of the Triumph Club, he delighted in the restoration of British sports cars, blending mechanical expertise with artistry. He also enjoyed scuba diving, biking, and skiing, embracing the thrill of adventure and the beauty of nature.

Richard is survived by his beloved wife, Sabrina Boyer; and his stepdaughter, Krystal O'Connor. He took great pride in his three grandchildren, Bryson, Logan, and Morgan O'Connor, whose laughter and joy brought light to his life. He is also survived by his sister, Gail Carr (Jim); and his niece, Jessica Carr.

Richard was preceded in death by his parents; and his deeply loved daughter, Jennifer Renée Arnott, whose memory he carried with him every day. In passing, he is now reunited with her, a thought that brings solace to those who mourn his loss.

Richard's legacy lives on through the love he gave, the passions he pursued, and the lives he touched. He will be profoundly missed, but fondly remembered by family, friends, and all who had the privilege of knowing him.
