

JASON GALANTER

It is with deep sorrow that we announce the passing of Jason Galanter, age 57, on March 14, 2025. Jason was born on December 22, 1967, to Janice and Larry Galanter. He was a beloved husband, father, son, brother and uncle, whose love and kindness will forever be cherished.

Jason is survived by his loving wife, Lori Galanter; his children, Jacob Galanter (Mev Howison), and Kira Galanter; his parents, Janice and Larry Galanter; his siblings, Alexis Galanter, married to Robert Butcher and Dan Galanter; as well as his cherished niece and nephews, Quinn Butcher, Cam Butcher and Chloe Butcher.

A devoted family man, Jason was known for his warmth, humor and generosity. He dedicated his professional life to the mastery of technology in all its forms, he held senior network engineering and architecture roles at several technology firms, helping them to grow and scale globally to serve customers all over the world. Notable companies include Airbnb and LinkedIn. In the last two years, Jason was Vice President of Enterprise Infrastructure and Engineering at Stack AV, a company dedicated to deploying autonomous trucks to streamline supply chains across the U.S. Jason will forever be remembered as a brilliant architect, engineer, mentor and coach, who led his teams with integrity and passion. Jason enjoyed sharing his interests, whether it be his love of good food, weekly trips to the shooting range or watching movies with those closest to him. Through his work, his friendships and his love for his family, Jason left a lasting impact on everyone he met.

Graveside Services and Interment were held at Homewood Cemetery, on Sunday, March 16, 2025.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to Bridge to Home Animal Rescue (bridgetohome84.org), an organization close to Jason's heart.

Jason's memory will live on in the hearts of his family and friends, who will forever remember him for the joy and love he brought into their lives. Arrangements entrusted to RALPH SCHUGAR CHAPEL INC.
