

BETHANI WILMA DUDLEY

August 19, 1950-March 16, 2025

Most recently of Beaver, McKeesport, Pittsburgh, Butler. Coming into herself later in life, and aware of her "limited shelf life," Bethani chortled at the idea of pedaling her cargo trike up into the clouds, colorful as a rainbow. Kind, curt, perceptive, uncomprehending, honest (to a fault), exhaustingly insistent, unfailingly helpful, deeply loyal, quick to befriend, like and love people, or to tell them off, meticulous and chaotic,

Bethani was dealt and somehow played out a long series of bad hands in life, without giving in to despair. Believer in logic, spirit messages, Jesus ("he's historical") but not the devil ("he's a myth"), modern surgery, faith healing, her ability to fix almost anything, total equality, love, and the near unlimited health benefits of onions, garlic and cayenne. Child of Emma (Emma Anna-Katherine Wolf) and Robert George Dudley. Survived by family, including brothers, Robert "Bob" (Darlene), Keith (Jessica) and Kevin (Elaine); cousin, Vivian (Vincent); and a chosen family of friends. Gathering of remembrance will be late November or early December.
